Nadleh Whut'en Hosts Vibrant Indigenous Day Celebration

June 21st, 2024

On June 21st, 2024, the Nadleh Whut'en community hosted an Indigenous Day celebration, brimming with community, culture and fun activities. The event featured an array of activities showcasing the rich heritage of the Nadleh Whut'en people. Traditional Lahal games, Bannock booth, Storytelling by Elders. Songs and Dancing. Booths around the grounds provided hands-on experiences, with artisans displaying beadwork, carvings, and traditional clothing. A highlight was the surprise performance by The Rightful Owners rock band, who came out of retirement for the event. The Elders' electrifying performance energizing the crowd. Food booths offered traditional cuisine, including bannock, salmon, and berry desserts, providing a taste of Nadleh Whut'en culinary traditions. The event was both a celebration and an educational experience, fostering greater understanding and appreciation for Indigenous culture.

The day concluded with a heartwarming closing ceremony, where Elders offered blessings and emphasized unity and cultural preservation. Indigenous Day 2024 in Nadleh Whut'en was a memorable celebration of heritage and community.

First Prolonged Heat of the Season

Event Duration: Coast – Friday July 5 to Tuesday July 9, 2024
Interior – Sunday July 7 to Thursday July 11, 2024

| | | Risk | | |
|------------|----------|--|---|--|
| Likelihood | High | | ✓ | |
| | Moderate | | | |
| | Low | | | |
| | Very Low | | | |
| | |  →  | | |
| | | Impact (Known Vulnerability & Exposure) | | |

Impacts

- First prolonged heat event of the season may increase heat related illnesses.
- Possible elevated river and stream levels in response to high-alpine snow melt, especially in smaller stream systems.
- Worsening drought conditions & air quality; priming fuels for possible wildfire ignitions.

Certainty

Weather Pattern: HIGH. The first province-wide heat will begin Friday over the coast and spread across the interior this weekend as a ridge of high pressure settles over the province. This multi-day event may continue into mid-late next week. However, the exact duration of this event remains uncertain and may lengthen/shorten. In the event that the warming extends past the forecast period, listed impacts may increase from a prolonged period of above-seasonal temperatures.

Temperatures: MODERATE. Current model guidance forecasts temperatures to be 6-12 degrees above normal and peaking Sunday-Tuesday for the southern interior. Temperatures will gradually decrease but remain above normal until at least next Wednesday over the coast and Friday over the interior.

Key Points

- Forecast Temperatures:

Coast: 25-30°C (Coastal inland sections: Up to 32 °C). Communities nearest the Strait of Georgia may see some reprieve from the heat due to the cooling effects of a sea breeze (local wind).

Southern Interior BC: 32-39°C (Up to 40 °C over Lytton) & Northeastern Interior BC: 28-32°C.

- This will mark a significant shift from seasonal temperatures and wet June weather to prolonged hot and dry conditions.
- The interior parts of BC in grey will still feel the affects of the anomalous daytime temperatures, but overnight lows may fall below heat warning threshold.
- No/minimal precipitation is forecast through the heat event. However, a risk of dry lightning is possible at times, particularly near the end of the peak heat as the ridge departs. Those details to be determined.
- Heat warnings will be issued as necessary. Follow: <https://www.weather.gc.ca/>

Next Update/WebEx

- Please continue to monitor alerts and updates issued by ECCC and partners for the latest information.

Nadleh Whut'en Hosts Gathering at Tse Yaz Bunk'et for MMIW Awareness

June 25th, 2024

The Nadleh Whut'en community hosted a significant gathering at Tse Yaz Bunk'et on June 21st, 2024, to unveil a new billboard on Highway 16, bearing the powerful message: "We are hope, we are strength." This initiative, in collaboration with the Carrier Sekani Family Services (CSFS), aimed to raise awareness and honor Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women (MMIW).

The event brought together community members, leaders, and supporters to reflect on the impact of MMIW and to reaffirm their commitment to seeking justice and creating change. Elders opened the gathering with traditional prayers and blessings, setting a tone of reverence and solidarity. Speeches from local leaders and representatives from CSFS highlighted the ongoing efforts to address this critical issue and support affected families. The unveiling of the billboard was a poignant moment, symbolizing hope and resilience. Located along the notorious "Highway of Tears," the billboard serves as a stark reminder of the lives lost and the community's unwavering determination to seek justice. Highlighting alongside the missing women and girls, the men and boys who have gone missing or murdered. Especially the Jack family mystery. Songs were sung to honour their memory and to create hope for the future.

This gathering at Tse Yaz Bunk'et marked a significant step in raising awareness and fostering a sense of hope and strength within the community, inspiring continued action and solidarity in the fight for justice.

Dagan Ducharme, the dedicated Learning Centre Teacher for Nadleh Whut'en, had his last day with us June 27th, 2024, marking the end of a cherished chapter in our community. Ducharme's departure is bittersweet, as he moves to the Okanagan to be with his family. His commitment to education and his positive impact on students will be deeply missed, but we wish him all the best in his new journey.
